Back to work: finding employment after Service

Stoll enables Veterans to find sustainable and fulfilling employment. Our employment service can help in finding long-term careers outside of the Military, supporting your transition into civilian life.

Employment Advisor

Our Employment Advisor is passionate about helping Veterans to transfer their skill sets to the civilian workplace. This role is in partnership with RFEA and Walking With The Wounded, as part of their Home Straight programme.

What does the service provide?

Our Employment Advisor can offer help with:

- Creating a CV
- Your job search
- Interview skills
- Paid employment
- Work placements
- Volunteering opportunities
- Training

Since November 2015 – January 2017, our Employment Advisor has started work with 51 clients to date, supporting 26 into employment.

After 12 years in the Army, Kofi began working with our Employment Advisor who helped him put together an updated CV, suggested various employment opportunities and recommended him to take a 2-month course with the NHS.

“When I left the army, I thought, what next? I didn’t know anything about getting a job, but the employment advisor helped to direct my actions. No one can do it for you. The employment advisor helped put me on the right path and in the right direction.”

Another resident who has benefited is Michael. He left the Army after serving in Kosovo and Iraq. Michael started a new job with Network Rail after working with the Employment Advisor for 5 months. He said: “I think everything is down to the charities and without Stoll, I could be on the street.”

Potential Employers and Training Opportunities

Some Veterans have gone on to work for Barclays, Jaguar Land Rover, NHS and Network Rail. We have funds available to help you access further training opportunities that may help you into employment or gain valuable skills.

Phillip, Accolade Security:

“It’s been a fantastic process to work with Stoll. There are very viable opportunities with us at Accolade Security for the right candidates and we are pleased to work with the Veteran community.”

Can I use this service?
